

Colour extraction....Just like on TV

This technique is used a lot by commercial organisations to emphasise a product or colour. I know I have used many times for client's who want that emphasis. It's an easy to do technique and anyone can do it. Again I have done this in CS2. But works in all flavours of PS

OK, open an image you want to play with. Here is mine

1 First we de-saturate the image, Adjustment>Desaturate this will remove all the colour and the image will look mine above....straight Black'N'White.

2 Go to the history brush

3. choose a soft edged brush, make sure you have the right size, that's important

4. Paint over the area you the colour in, be careful with the brush size. That's it, job done.

Take your time, especially in smaller detail areas.
